Methods of Teaching and Learning

A variety of methods will be used in teaching United States History I, including lecture, presentation, recorded presentations and videos, quizzes, and written assignments. Student assessment includes completion of reading quizzes, discussion of materials, and reading and written analysis of primary and secondary sources. These measures will assess the following course objectives and competencies. A departmental rubric may be used to assess different aspects of the course objectives (see below).

Course Objectives and/or Competencies

- Critical Thinking: Through lecture and a variety of objective strategies, students will be assessed on critical thinking ability. Objective examinations will specifically be used to assess critical thinking. Other assessment vehicles may include essays, portfolios, primary source objective exams, and presentations.
- Communication: Measures such as objective tests, written assignments, discussions, portfolios and presentations may be used to measure the student's ability to communicate.
- Social Responsibility: Because the teaching of history involves evoking examples of successes and failures in social responsibility, and the continual importance of this issue politically and personally today, social responsibility naturally is emphasized. Assessment measures may include readings, primary document exams, discussions, projects and essays.
- Personal Responsibility: Because the teaching of history also involves evoking examples of successes and failures in personal responsibility, and the consequences that personal choices can have, personal responsibility is also naturally emphasized. Assessment measures may include participation, readings, primary document exams, discussions, projects and essays.

Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course, students will:

1. Create an argument through use of historical evidence.
2. Analyze and interpret primary and secondary sources.

3. Analyze the effects of historical, social, political, economic, cultural, and global forces on this period of United States history.

Course Grading Information

The course meets in-person (face-to-face) but is organized into Brightspace modules, with assigned readings per module, and course work conducted through reading and assignment activities. Dr. Driver facilitates course participation and designed content and structure to support development of student ideas and interpretation of history. Students are expected to attend class and participate in the course. Please see other course policies for specific criteria related to the goal of student success in the course.

Dr. Driver participates and provides feedback and grades on all submitted assignments, as well as posts announcements and reminders for course content and any necessary changes or amendments to the course. All contributions by Dr. Driver will be delivered in-person but may also be written or recorded in video or audio messages where relevant or complementary to the modules and content in the course.

Evaluation

United States History I is an introductory survey course into American history explored and researched for our collective understanding. The goal for students taking this course is knowledge of United States history through the Civil War and familiarity with the skills and methods of working as a historian. Students will leave the course with mastery over content and skills they can take to any major and education and career path. Completion of the following grading areas determines your course grade.

Criteria

Module Content and Assignments

The course is designed to introduce students to topics in United States history and instruct them on analytical and critical thinking skills related to content, historical artifacts, documents (primary sources), and secondary sources. Materials are organized into modules within Brightspace per the outline. Due dates and instructions are also indicated in Brightspace. The modules contain or link to all assigned materials to be reviewed and evaluated as part of that module and in completion of course assignments.

Requirements for completion of module content per the course schedule are included in tasks lists, and students should use these tools to confirm all quizzes, assignments, and activities are completed. Students need to submit materials on time by the due dates. Information on late policy included below.

When completing written assignments, students are expected to utilize analysis and critical thinking skills to explore historical knowledge and developments – do not just repeat historical facts. Written assignments are evaluated based on the quality of the response and use of assigned materials. All written assignments include specific instructions and expectations for completion (such as formatting, a minimum length of 250 or 500 words and cited materials) and are not available past the due date.

Review of all required content and materials, except the textbook and class meeting lectures and presentations, are completed within Brightspace. Written assignments and quizzes are completed within Brightspace. No emailed materials are accepted.

Checklists and Due Dates

Topical content modules within Brightspace include assigned materials (outside the textbook): overview pages, presentation videos, readings and videos, and assignments/quizzes. Due to the structure of the content modules, assignments and quizzes are not accessible until the content in the module is completed. To assist you, checklists are included within each module to track your progress and meet due dates for each module, assignment, and quiz in the course.

Additionally, due dates within the course schedule of this syllabus are duplicated within content modules and checklists. As policy, see below, no late work is accepted in the course and likewise, no extensions for missed quizzes or assignments are considered or granted.

Quizzes

Objective quizzes are assigned within Brightspace modules to assess historical content and knowledge gained from presentations, content, and assigned readings, and are not available past the due date.

- Set aside adequate time for you to review or complete assigned content and readings.
- Quizzes range in questions asked (typically between 20-40) and time allotted (30-60 minutes).
- Quizzes are assigned to be completed over a 48 hour period ending the assigned module. Please review the syllabus schedule for information on start and due dates.

Any questions about rubrics should be asked prior to assignment submission.

Late Work, Attendance, and Make Up Work Policies

Ample time and notifications are provided by the course schedule and Brightspace system for due dates and coursework. I recommend you plan to complete your coursework based on these expectations, managing your time well, and preparing for the unexpected. Late work is not accepted in this course. All assignments are due on the date assigned and are not available after that stated due date. I will not reset any availability dates for assignments or quizzes because you missed the due date.

In the case of an emergency, students will be required to provide documentation of the emergency within seven days of the stated assignment due date and the work is due within the same time frame.

Attendance is compiled every class meeting and a register is included in Brightspace.

Student Behavioral Expectations and Conduct Policies

The instructor is committed to student success and believes appropriate classroom conduct helps achieve this goal. Students are expected to behave professionally and display respect for themselves, fellow students, the instructor, and the course, in all interactions. It is the student's responsibility to track their own progress in the course, starting from successful submission of assignments, to returned feedback and grades. Course interactions may be moderated by the instructor without warning. Please direct concerns regarding course behavior to the instructor.

This is a college course.

You are expected to perform professionally in this course and in your submitted work. You will receive the grade earned and that grade is a permanent entry included on your college transcript. The assignments and quizzes in the course are provided in both the schedule and breakdown. One bonus or extra credit opportunity is offered in the course. Please do not ask for other "extra credit" opportunities.

Students are expected to read the syllabus completely on day one.

The instructor is not responsible for the student reading the syllabus. It is in the student's best interest to have completely read and reviewed the syllabus on day one, and to ask questions if any criteria, evaluation method, or course policy is not clear or requires more explanation for their understanding.

All correspondence occurs via Brightspace or MCC email.

Students are required to use their MCC student email to contact the instructor. Email replies are typically provided within 24 hours throughout the week. Please respect that waiting period. Students are asked to be professional in correspondence, use salutations, and avoiding "text message" style or format. The instructor may use other communication methods where relevant or appropriate.

This course affirms people of all gender expressions and gender identities.

If you prefer to be called a different name or gender pronoun than what is on (or indicated by) the class roster, please let me know. I will gladly honor your request. Please advise me of your pronouns early in the semester so I may make appropriate changes to my records. My pronouns are Dr./he/him.

Computer use is required for this course.

This course is taught with Brightspace. The syllabus, information on assigned readings, and information on activities, assignments, and assessments are posted in Brightspace, as well as announcements and grades for assignments. I post any presented materials in Brightspace, but not notes – those are compiled through review of materials by YOU! No emailed materials are accepted.

Attendance is required.

MCC policy requires regular and punctual attendance by all students (B-II) and mandates that students are withdrawn from class if 25% of class meetings are missed in a semester, as this is taken to indicate the student does not intend to successfully complete the course. The instructor of the course may contact you once 25% of attendance is recorded as absent but students are responsible for completing or requesting a withdrawal from the course. Your instructor is ready and willing to help you maintain attendance and will not drop you unexpectedly without contact and your consultation on withdrawal.

McLennan Together

McLennan Community College has a notice regarding COVID-19 at the front of every course syllabus and a plan, McLennan Together, to maintain health and safety in these unprecedented times. Please familiarize yourself with that information and plan accordingly. Be ready for changes to the semester as deemed necessary by college administration, faculty, and staff. We are here to help you and work with you toward student success, and I urge you to follow new policies and safety measures to that goal.

Academic Integrity

Do not be academically dishonest. In any case where any action deemed to be academically dishonest is discovered or determined, the penalty for the assignment is a 0 grade, with no revision or resubmission offered. The violation will be reported and potential for harsher penalties depending on the severity of the dishonesty exists, including failure of the course.

Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to:

- Cheating: copying answers; using unauthorized materials; stealing tests/assignments; substituting for another student; including unauthorized or “hidden” materials in submitted work to meet assignment expectations (may also fall under plagiarism).
- Plagiarism: using someone else’s work, ideas, writings, etc. without giving her/him credit. Anything that is in your papers should be in your own words. It is ok to quote someone, but make sure to use quotations and cite your source.
- Collusion: unauthorized collaboration with one or more other persons on an assignment or assessment.
- Sharing one’s work: any sharing of work with another classmate in any capacity will be considered academic dishonesty if it impacts either or both students’ grades on assignments.

Any violation of academic dishonesty will result in a 0 for the submitted assignment and written feedback regarding the identification of a violation of academic integrity will be provided to the student. No resubmission or revised attempted will be offered in the case of academic dishonesty.

Turn It In

The Brightspace system sends submitted work through Turn It In to confirm academic integrity. You can review the Turn It In similarity report for each written assignment through Brightspace. Turn It In is a great resource to check your writing and citation of included examples and references from assigned materials in the course. Students should review the report following submission of each assignment.
