Methods of Teaching and Learning:

A variety of methods will be used in teaching United States History I, including the use of lecture, discussion, written assignments, and various projects. Student assessment will include objective exams, readings of primary and secondary sources, discussions, subjective and objective essays, projects and portfolios. These measures will assess critical thinking, communication, social responsibility and personal responsibility. A departmental rubric may be used to assess different aspects of the course objectives (see below).

Communication: Measures such as objective tests, written assignments, discussions, portfolios and presentations may be used to measure the student's ability to communicate.

Social Responsibility: Because the teaching of history involves evoking examples of successes and failures in social responsibility, and the continual importance of this issue politically and personally today, social responsibility naturally is emphasized. Assessment measures may include readings, primary document exams, discussions, projects and essays.

Personal Responsibility: Because the teaching of history also involves evoking examples of successes and failures in personal responsibility, and the consequences that personal choices can have, personal responsibility is also naturally emphasized. Assessment measures may include participation, readings, primary document exams, discussions, projects and essays.

Official Learning Outcomes. Upon successful completion of this course, students will:

Create an argument through the use of historical evidence.

Analyze and interpret primary and secondary sources.

Analyze the effects of historical, social, political, economic, cultural, and global forces on this period of United States history.

Unofficial Goals of this Course:

Students should acquire a working knowledge of the American narrative from Colonization to Reconstruction, understand how history complements citizenship, and develop critical thinking skills through reading, discussing, and thinking about history.

1. Primary Objective: offer a coherent and compelling American narrative from colonization to 1877; that is, a basic outline or framework of the essential facts, people, places, and ideas relevant to this time period and place.

Convey how the telling and the interpretation of the story affects the story itself and changes over time.

Students will be able to:

- Compare and contrast competing interpretations and points of view basic to the understanding of the narrative.
- Compare and contrast the American narrative(s) within the context of competing narratives
- Identify various and appropriate methodologies and theories of history
- Identify basic and significant ideologies that contributed to the culture

3. Facilitate an environment in which we provide appropriate tools for critical analysis of historical facts, offer concepts as well as facts, and encourage students to draw their own conclusions based on evidence and logic.

Students will be able to:

- Identify primary and secondary sources

- Identify multiple motivations within various actors
- Describe multiple causes for various events
- Compare and contrast various perspective

4. Promote citizenship in the sense that informed participation is necessary/essential/indispensable/critical/vital to self-government; offer students tools to participate effectively in our political system as well as succeeding and contributing in greater society.

Students will be able to:

- Identify basic elements of our Constitutional/governmental structure
- Describe the evolution of various and ideas and movements within our system
- Identify the intentions and expectations of various players that contributed to change over time
- Define the basic elements of American citizenship over time

5. Require college-level reading and comprehension.

Students will be able to identify, describe, and define basic ideas contained within assigned readings

6. Convey the ethnic, cultural, and intellectual diversity of the American story over time.

Students will be able to:

- Identify various movements and leaders who expanded the meaning of freedom and citizenship
- Compare and contrast the experience of various groups within society
- Describe the evolution of American citizenship and community
- Define diversity and inclusivity

Course Attendance/Participation Guidelines:

If a student is not in attendance in accordance with the policies/guidelines of the class as outlined in the course syllabus as of the course census date, faculty are required to drop students from their class roster prior to certifying the respective class roster. A student's financial aid will be re-evaluated accordingly and the student will only receive funding for those courses attended as of the course census date.

Before the 60% point of the semester, a student who is absent for 25% or more of a face-to-face or blended course or who miss 25% or more of assigned work for an online course will be withdrawn from the course with a grade of W. A student may also request to be withdrawn with a grade of W before the 60% point of the semester. After the 60% point of the semester, the student may request to be withdrawn if the student is passing, or be assigned the final grade earned at the end of the semester after grades have been updated to reflect missing work.

Email Policy:

McLennan Community College would like to remind you of the policy (<http://www.mclennan.edu/employees/policy-manual/docs/E-XXXI-B.pdf>) regarding college email. All students, faculty, and staff are encouraged to use their McLennan email addresses when conducting college business.

A student's McLennan email address is the preferred email address that college employees should use for official college information or business. Students are expected to read and, if needed, respond in a timely manner to college emails. For more information about your student email account, go to www.mclennan.edu/studentemail.

Instructional Uses of Email:

Faculty members can determine classroom use of email or electronic communications. Faculty should expect and encourage students to check the college email on a regular basis. Faculty should inform students in the course syllabus if another communication method is to be used and of any special or unusual expectations for electronic communications.

If a faculty member prefers not to communicate by email with their students, it should be reflected in the course syllabus and information should be provided for the preferred form of communication.

Email on Mobile Devices:

The College recommends that you set up your mobile device to receive McLennan emails. If you need assistance with set-up, you may email Helpdesk@mclennan.edu for help.

You can find help on the McLennan website about connecting your McLennan email account to your mobile device:

- Email Setup for iPhones and iPads
- Email Setup for Androids

Forwarding Emails:

You may forward emails that come to your McLennan address to alternate email addresses; however, the College will not be held responsible for emails forwarded to an alternate address that may be lost or placed in junk or spam filters.

For more helpful information about technology at MCC, go to MCC's Tech Support Cheat Sheet or email helpdesk@mclennan.edu.
