Methods of Teaching and Learning:

Examples: Lecture, discussion, written reports/papers, exams, quizzes

Course Objectives and/or Competencies:

Critical Thinking: Through lecture and a variety of objective strategies, students will be assessed on critical thinking ability. Communication: Measures such as objective tests, written assignments, discussions, portfolios and presentations may be used to measure the student's ability to communicate.

Social Responsibility: Because the teaching of history involves evoking examples of successes and failures in social responsibility, and the continual importance of this issue politically and personally today, social responsibility naturally is emphasized. Assessment measures may include readings, primary document exams, discussions, projects and essays.

Personal Responsibility: Because the teaching of history also involves evoking examples of successes and failures in personal responsibility, and the consequences that personal choices can have, personal responsibility is also naturally emphasized. Assessment measures may include participation, readings, primary document exams, discussions, projects and essays.

Learning Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course, students will:

- Create an argument through the use of historical evidence.
- Analyze and interpret primary and secondary sources.
- Analyze the effects of historical, social, political, economic, cultural, and global forces on this period of United States history.

Course Outline or Schedule:

The schedule is subject to change, depending upon the needs of the class as assessed by the instructor. To find a more complete and detailed schedule, consult Brightspace.

Course Grading Information:

Students grades are calculated based on a points system. Students will complete assignments that may include objective tests and quizzes, short and long essays and discussion boards. Assignments may be added throughout the course, which will increase the total points to be earned. Point totals will vary according to assignment.

Late Work, Attendance, and Make Up Work Policies:

All late papers will lose 10% per week through five weeks, when the paper will no longer be accessible. Students who miss a test will be able to make a test up.

Student Behavioral Expectations or Conduct Policy:

Students are expected to maintain classroom decorum that includes respect for other students and the instructor, prompt and regular attendance, and an attitude that seeks to take full advantage of the education opportunity.

Cheating will not be tolerated. Suspected cheating on a class assignment will result in an appropriate disciplinary action including receiving a 0 on the assignment. Further disciplinary action within the college may also be warranted.

Plagiarism will not be tolerated. Any paper that is taken directly from another source without citation, even partially, will automatically receive a 0. Students who turn in similar or the same responses as another student may receive no credit for the work.
