Reading Quizzes will consist of “objective” questions such as multiple choice, etc. They will be open book, but timed. You will need to master the material before you take the quiz. You will take

- 9 Reading Quizzes from The Christian Tradition @ 20 pts each
- 5 Reading Quizzes from Primary Sources @ 20 pts each

Two Reading Quizzes will count as extra-credit, if all 14 are taken.

Discussion Board evaluation will be done both on meeting the requirements and quality. Points will not be awarded until the end of the course to allow me to judge improvement over time and take that into consideration.

Worship Visit Reflection Essay will be evaluated for thoughtfulness as you give careful consideration to the suggested questions plus any others you think of. Instructions are in Assignments.

Christian Art Assignment will be evaluated for the consideration and thought expressed in the reflections. You will not be expected to have a background in art criticism. Instructions are in Assignments.

Final Exam The final exam will be available for 24 hours before it is due since this class typically has students living in several time zones around the world. You will be given an essay prompt requiring you to review the course material. Think of it as a one-question open-book final exam that you have two hours to do. Late Work, Attendance, and Make Up Work Policies:

LATE WORK WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED unless you can document a major life disruption such as hospitalization, death in the immediate family, or court appearance. We all are busy and most people work even when not feeling well.

History of Religions II

PHIL 1317 87

Student Behavioral Expectations or Conduct Policy:

- We will practice responsibility. Check the announcements at least every other day. Keep track yourself of the Assignment Schedule.
- We will practice responsibility. Assignments are due on time. Extensions may be granted only for documented major life disruptions.
- We will practice mutual respect. There will be no personal attacks on the discussion boards. We will discuss issues rationally and calmly, not engage in rudeness. All points of view will be respected, though remember that in an academic setting your point of view may be questioned and debated in a rational manner. (It is better if you write “I think” rather than “I feel.”) A student’s religious viewpoint will have no effect on grading.

If I judge you to be rude or disrespectful toward class members, or me, I will warn you and try to help you develop the skills needed for discussion. If you persist in rudeness or personal attacks I reserve the right to bar you from discussion groups. This will cause you to forfeit that part of your grade.

- We will practice honesty. The work we turn in will be our own. We will not cheat on quizzes nor plagiarize. Either one, or both, are grounds for an F. (Studying together is good. Talking about assignments together is good. Taking quizzes together is bad. Writing assignments together is bad. Using someone else’s essay as your own, perhaps from the internet, is bad.)

We will practice responsibility. If it becomes necessary for you to withdraw from class, it is your responsibility to drop officially by contacting the Instructor. Failure to participate in class for three consecutive assignments and/or quizzes will result in the student being dropped, unless the student contacts the Instructor with a documented reason for non-participation, sexual harassment, stalking, dating violence or domestic violence.
