Course Outline or Schedule:

Each week you will participate in various activities about various assigned topics.

Course Grading Information:

The final grade for the semester will be calculated by averaging the five highest project/quiz grades. Six project/quizzes are scheduled for the semester all weighing equally. The lowest of the six grades will be dropped and the remaining 5 averaged.

Late Work, Attendance, and Make Up Work Policies:

Discussions are based on information discussed in class, so attendance is essential. Attendance will be taken immediately at the start of class; you must arrive on time and stay through the end of class to be counted present. Sleeping, texting or being unprepared counts as an absence. Three tardies count as one absence. Should you miss class, you are responsible for catching up on missed material through use of the Course Schedule, posted on Brightspace, and your classmates' notes. You do NOT need to notify me or explain your absence. All absences, for any reason, are treated equally. If you miss more than 25% of the total classes before the student initiated drop date, you will be dropped from the course. After this point, if you elect to drop the class, you will need to obtain the appropriate paperwork at student records, follow the instructions given and turn in the paper work yourself. Late work is not accepted.

Student Behavioral Expectations or Conduct Policy:

Writing is one of the key ways students learn, communicate, and demonstrate their learning. Academic writing differs from other forms of writing in that it usually:

1. Is appropriately narrow in focus.
2. Presents an argument based on sound critical thinking.
3. Draws upon and properly acknowledges the work of others.
4. Presents new insights in an organized fashion.

All writing in this class, from electronic discussion boards, to personal essays, to formal research papers, will be evaluated on the basis of focus of content, development of ideas, strength of argument, supporting sources, organization and structure, creativity, written quality, and mechanics. Any information not original to the student must be cited in a recognized format that is appropriate to the specific academic discipline, for example, APA, MLA, or Chicago.

This is a college level course; therefore, I expect you to write at a college level. This means using proper spelling and grammar, and not using text-speak (for example, use "you" NOT "u") and applies to all writing done in the course, including emails, projects, and Db postings. Should your writing be sub-par, you may not receive full credit for your work.

To receive full credit for you Db postings, your responses and comments must have actual substance. For example, a post of "That's great" or "I agree" has very little value and will not receive full credit. Instead, you could post, "I agree. Picasso has an distinctive way of using color to express mood."

Text based mediums lack the element of facial expressions, body gestures, and tone of voice that we all rely on to impart meaning into the words we speak. Emoticons are a poor substitute. Remember that others may read your messages with a different tone than you intend. Also remember that a message may have been intended to have a different tone than the one you have read into it. You must be courteous and respectful at all times. Failure to do so will result in lost credit. Should problems persist, you may be dropped from the class.
