Week 1:
Unit 1: Summary and Response For this unit, we are exploring ways to respond to arguments by focusing on ongoing questions about social justice in our society. As a class, we will read several arguments related to inequality in our society and decide whether or not we agree or disagree with the author's argument. Your goal will be to choose one of the sample arguments provided and write a response to that argument that accurately summarizes the author's claim and expresses the degree to which you either agree or disagree with that claim. Further details will be provided in the 'Essay One' prompt, but for now, I've provided a series of guiding questions to help frame our thinking. Guiding Questions: In what context was this argument made? What is the author's bias, and what role does it play in the argument? How do I distinguish between a valid argument and a false one? How do I respond to an argument constructively?

Please note that instructors are not required to provide classroom accommodations to students until appropriate verification has been provided by the Accommodations Coordinator. Email Policy:

McLennan Community College would like to remind you of the policy (<http://www.mclennan.edu/employees/policy-manual/docs/E-XXXI-B.pdf>) regarding college email. All students, faculty, and staff are encouraged to use their McLennan email addresses when conducting college business.

A student's McLennan email address is the preferred email address that college employees should use for official college information or business. Students are expected to read and, if needed, respond in a timely manner to college emails.

Instructional Uses of Email:

Faculty members can determine classroom use of email or electronic communications. Faculty should expect and encourage students to check the college email on a regular basis. Faculty should inform students in the course syllabus if another communication method is to be used and of any special or unusual expectations for electronic communications.

If a faculty member prefers not to communicate by email with their students, it should be reflected in the course syllabus and information should be provided for the preferred form of communication.

Email on Mobile Devices:

The College recommends that you set up your mobile device to receive McLennan emails. If you need assistance with set-up, you may email Helpdesk@mclennan.edu for help.

Forwarding Emails:

You may forward emails that come to your McLennan address to alternate email addresses; however, the College will not be held responsible for emails forwarded to an alternate address that may be lost or placed in junk or spam filters.
