Methods of Teaching and Learning:

A variety of methods will be used in teaching United States History II, including the use of lecture, discussion, written assignments, and various projects. Student assessment will include objective exams, readings of primary and secondary sources, discussions, subjective and objective essays, projects and portfolios. These measures will assess critical thinking, communication, social responsibility and personal responsibility. A departmental rubric may be used to assess different aspects of the course objectives

Course Objectives and/or Competencies:

Critical Thinking: Through lecture and a variety of objective strategies, students will be assessed on critical thinking ability. Objective examinations will specifically be used to assess critical thinking. Other assessment vehicles may include essays, portfolios, primary source objective exams, and presentations.

Communication: Measures such as objective tests, written assignments, discussions, portfolios, and presentations may be used to measure the student's ability to communicate.

Social Responsibility: Because the teaching of history involves evoking examples of successes and failures in social responsibility, and the continual importance of this issue politically and personally today, social responsibility naturally is emphasized. Assessment measures may include readings, primary document exams, discussions, projects, and essays.

Personal Responsibility: Because the teaching of history also involves evoking examples of successes and failures in personal responsibility, and the consequences that personal choices can have, personal responsibility is also naturally emphasized. Assessment measures may include participation, readings, primary document exams, discussions, projects, and essays.

Upon successful completion of this course, students will:

Power Points slides accompany each chapter in the text. These are meant to supplement your notes, not serve as your only source of information. They can be found in the “Lectures” link under the “Content” tab in Brightspace.

Instructor reserves the right to amend this syllabus at any time. If a change becomes necessary, you will be notified via email, as well as an announcement on the Brightspace portal.

Course Grading Information:

Discussions (and general Brightspace information):

As an online course, the most important prerequisite is that you have access to McLennan’s Brightspace portal, located at <https://brightspace.mclennan.edu/d2l/login> (preferably by way of a high-speed internet connection). If you do not have login credentials (i.e., a username or password) for McLennan’s Brightspace portal, or do not know if you do, you must resolve this immediately. Failure to do so will result in a serious disadvantage in the course, since regular assignments begin during the first week of the semester. Although some of you are familiar with Brightspace, these details bear repeating.

Be sure to look around the Brightspace course shell. The main modules that I will use in this course include “Announcements,” “Class documents,” “Discussions,” “Lectures,” and “Syllabus.” By way of a few words on each:

- “Announcements,” found on the home page for our course, is where I will post communications about the course.
- “Class documents,” found under the “Content” tab, is where you will find further instructions concerning your papers and exams, as well as any additional readings that are assigned throughout the semester.

- “Discussions” is the Brightspace Discussion Board where you will post answers to your weekly assignments. You will answer three questions on the Discussion Board each week where, for each question, you are required to submit three posts. The first should be a longer post that thoroughly answers the question and demonstrates that you mastered the reading for that week. The second and third posts are shorter comments to your classmates’ posts. Each week that they are assigned, I will post discussion questions on Monday. They will be due the following Saturday night at midnight.
 Each week, you will have the opportunity to earn 5 bonus points by posting your response to my question by Wednesday evening. Please see the discussion forums for more information.
 You must start a new thread (a response to my initial question) before you can read and reply to other threads (i.e., your classmates’ posts).
- “Lectures,” found under the “Content” tab, is where I have posted Power Point slides for each week of reading in the Foner textbook. These slides help to supplement the notes you take as you read.
- “Syllabus,” found under the “Content” tab, is where I will always post the latest version of the syllabus (in case there are revisions during the semester).

The inherent flexibility of a course of this type is that you can complete the weekly assignments at your leisure, while the drawback is that you will have to be disciplined and self-motivated to such an extent that you are able to complete all assignments in a timely manner.

Papers:

You will write two five-page papers for this class. A detailed instruction sheet will follow as we approach the first paper assignment.

Midterm and Final Exams:

The midterm and final exams will be submitted online. You will not need to come to campus to take the exams. The exams may consist of multiple choice, short answer and/or essay questions. Detailed instructions will follow as we approach the first exam.

Late Work, Attendance, and Make Up Work Policies:

Late Papers and Incompletes:

Any assignment submitted after the due date and time will be subject to a penalty of ten percent per twenty-four-hour period late. This includes papers and discussion board responses. Exams will not be subject to this penalty – if you fail to take/turn in an exam on time, you will receive a zero.

An incomplete will only be granted to those students who 1) find it impossible to complete the course due to circumstances beyond their control, and 2) have kept me informed of those circumstances as they develop.

Exam Make-up Policy:

Due to the online nature of this course, there will be no opportunity to take an exam other than at the assigned date and time. If you are unable to take an exam as scheduled, you will not receive a grade for that exam.
