NOTE: This is an 5-week, online course.

AMERICAN LITERATURE

ENGL 2326.88

Course Description:

A survey of American literature from the period of exploration and settlement to the present. Students will study works of prose, poetry, drama, and fiction in relation to their historical and cultural contexts. Texts will be selected from among a diverse group of authors for what they reflect and reveal about the evolving American experience and character.

Prerequisites and/or Corequisites:

ENGL 1301 or ENGL 2311

Course Notes and Instructor Recommendations:

Google Apps/Mail: Familiarize yourself with Google Apps through your MCC student account/email. We use it for delivering coursework and maintaining an updated course syllabi and calendar. Use YouTube and Google for any general use problems, but you should also contact Prof. Swanson and/or the Information Systems office (299-8077) for account help.

Grades/Attendance: While I do use Brightspace's gradebook, the ways that they add and depict scores do not always reflect where you are at or your progress overall. Therefore, I recommend that you contact me whenever to answer questions/concerns about grades via e-mail. E-mail my MCC account from your MCC account to ensure the greatest account security.

Email: I use my MCC and Google email accounts as my primary means of contacting students. Students are responsible for 1) regularly checking their messages in this account (at least once per day), 2) ensuring that their inbox is not full so that they can receive messages, and 3) ensuring that they remember their username and password. Students should only use their MCC email accounts when sending me email.

AMERICAN LITERATURE

For this course, we will be using Brightspace, Google Drive/Docs, and Classroom extensively.

To join the Google Classroom, you need to navigate to classroom.google.com, login with your MCC email and password, click to join a class, and enter the following code: “ec44dnl”.

In addition to the Stream, where I will make additional announcements and post discussions, you should also familiarize yourself with the “Classwork” tab, which we will use for essay drafts and additional resources and links for the course. I try to duplicate these in Brightspace. If something is missing or incorrect, email me asap so I can correct/add them.

Important Teaching and Learning Definitions:

“In-class”: The term “in-class” refers to time spent engaging with Brightspace or Google Classroom in a manner similar to face-to-face courses: reading lectures, completing quizzes, or watching course videos.

“Out-of-class”: The term “out-of-class” refers to time spent engaging with reading, homework, or writing and thinking similar to face-to-face courses’ homework: reading, watching resource videos, doing research, writing and revising drafts.

Working Ahead:

In general, I’ve structured the course for students to complete each “unit” of work in conjunction with their classmates. Therefore, the course includes assignments (particularly course discussions on Google Classroom) that cannot be completed before the class progresses to that point in the course.

However, because I know that students often like to or need to work ahead, I’ve made all of the Units, Unit Overviews, and writing assignments accessible from the start of class. Students are welcome to read and work ahead as much as possible, but since this course focuses on skill development and skill development takes time, practice, and feedback, then the course deliberately expects students to slow down at points and reflect on and receive feedback on their writing, reading, and thinking skills from their instructor and peers.

Course Objectives and/or Competencies:

- Identify key ideas, representative authors and works, significant historical or cultural events, and characteristic perspectives or attitudes expressed in the literature of different periods or regions.
- Analyze literary works as expressions of individual or communal values within the social, political, cultural, or religious contexts of different literary periods.
- Demonstrate knowledge of the development of characteristic forms or styles of expression during different historical periods or in different regions.
- Articulate the aesthetic principles that guide the scope and variety of works in the arts and humanities.

- Write research-based critical papers about the assigned readings in clear and grammatically correct prose, using various critical approaches to literature.

This syllabus is subject to change at the instructor's discretion. You will be notified of any changes via email/Classroom/Brightspace.

Course Grading Information:

Course Grading Scale:

A = 895-1000 pts.

B = 795-894 pts.

C = 695-794 pts.

D = 595-694 pts.

F = 594 and fewer pts.

Assignments/Graded Content:

1. Literary Analysis & Literary Theory Papers (1st Draft/RD: 50 + Revised Final: 125) x2 = 350 pts.): You will need to write two, multi-draft essays over the course of this term. The assignment sheets folder on Classroom (Classwork tab) holds more specific information, but each essay will require...

- MLA format (including page layout and citations in-text and works cited page)
- 1200 min - ~1500 words (If you're writing 2000+ words, you need to focus)
- a first/"rough" draft that meets all minimum requirements and represents what you might be used to turning in as a final,
- a Smarthinking review (students will need to submit their complete 1st/rough draft for tutor feedback and review and turn in the full review as a separate document in the Classroom assignment for the Final
- a revised final draft in which you take the feedback from the professor and Smarthinking tutor to rewrite and reorganize your essay towards significant improvement of clarity, content, and critical thinking.

3. Discussion Questions/Responses (180 pts.): For each Unit, discussion questions will be posted to the Google Classroom Stream. You should read the prompt (and any peer posts), complete the steps, and then write/paste your comment (200+ words MINIMUM) that demonstrates critical reading, thinking, and writing. Use and engagement with deeper level themes and ideas combined with use and explication of SPECIFIC examples are expected as minimum requirements. It's ok to not be sure, but discussions should at least show an effortful attempt to try to go beyond the surface and to stretch your and our understandings.

4. Quizzes (270 pts.): There will be quizzes in each unit that will assess your reading and attention to the lectures. Each unit's quiz or quizzes counts as a single Quiz assignment worth 30 points possible. Only the top 6 Units' quiz grades will count towards the overall course grade.

5. Participation and Preparedness (50 pts.): Students will receive a grade reflecting how well they demonstrate their out-of-class preparedness and willingness to engage, constructively, to class discussions and projects.

6. Final Exam Essay (100 pts.): During the last unit, the professor will post a comprehensive essay prompt on Classroom. Students will have until the stated due date/time to complete the essay using the works and readings from the course.

7. Conference (50 pts.): Before the end of Unit 05, students need to contact Prof. Swanson, set up, and keep a conference via email/Meet/Hangouts to discuss expectations, questions, papers, etc, on an individual level. To start this process, send an email to one of Prof. Swanson's emails from your MCC email and ask to set up a conference.

General Grading Philosophy:

Your grade will be based solely on the quality of your coursework, not on the amount of time or effort you claim you devoted to the class or the extent of any hardships you may have had to overcome. The grade will reflect outcomes and objectives in terms of product and process.

Readings/Quizzes:

- Quizzes will be given frequently on any assigned readings or activities. Daily readings should be done before the date scheduled. Not reading or not reading with adequate attention can result in significant loss of points.
- Missed quizzes cannot be made up for any reason, but only the top 6 units' quizzes will count towards the final grade.

Electronic Submission Policies:

Almost all assignments will be required to be submitted electronically via Google Classroom (with only quizzes on Brightspace). Since it is becoming increasingly important for workers to manage electronic information, students must follow the following guidelines when submitting electronically or risk a loss of 10% off of the top of the assignment's worth.

- Students should create their assignments in Google Docs and attach them to the appropriate assignment in Classroom immediately.

(The option in Classroom exists to create the document in the assignment and have it saved automatically in the Classroom assignment. I recommend strongly that students use it.)

- In the event that Google Docs is down for a prolonged period, you should e-mail your work as an attachment to me before the required time and date to avoid losing full credit.
- Assignments must be titled/saved so that their file name follows the general format: Last name first name filename.
 - So, I would title the file for this syllabus: Swanson Stephen ENGL 2326 Syllabus.
 - Do not use special characters such as “#” or “/” or “$” in the title, as they can cause problems in storage and recovery.
- Assignments must be submitted as Google Docs. If you need help converting your document to a Google Doc, please contact me significantly before an assignment is due.

NOTE: It can be hard to get used to a new electronic program. Please do not wait until the last minute to do things. Also, do not hesitate to ask for help (from me, IT (299-8077), and/or the Student Support Center/Writing Lab).

Writing Grading Standards:

The rubric, below, is what I use to guide my grading of all written assignments. It describes my standards for grading. This is a prose-style description of the qualities required for each grade level. We will be discussing the specific aspects and their worth as the semester progresses, but you should become familiar with what each grade represents.

If you have questions about what I mean or am looking for, then please schedule an appointment early in the semester to talk to me. Here is my rubric:

- An A paper (90-100%) is excellent in nearly all respects. It shows originality of thought that goes well beyond material presented in class. It is well argued and well organized with a clear, specific, and ambitious thesis. It is well developed with content that is specific, interesting, appropriate, and convincing. It has logical and artful transitions and is marked by stylistic finesse and varied sentence structures. It demonstrates command of mature diction and has few, if any, mechanical, grammatical, spelling, or diction errors.
- A B paper (80-89%) is excellent in several respects but may have a less sophisticated thesis, a less distinguished style, some minor lapses in organization and development, some ineffective sentence structures, and some minor mechanical, grammatical, spelling, or diction problems.
- A C paper (70-79%) is generally competent, but compared to a B paper, it may have a weaker thesis and less effective style and development. It may contain some lapses in organization, poor or awkward transitions, less varied sentence structures that tend toward choppiness or monotony, significant problems with mechanics, grammar, spelling, and diction.
- A D paper (60-69%) is below average and may present a thesis that is too vague or too obvious to be developed effectively. It generally exhibits problems with organization, support, transitions, sentence structures, mechanics, grammar, spelling, and diction that impede understanding.
- An F paper (59% and below) is far below average and may have no clear thesis or central topic. It may display a lack of organization, support, and development. It may contain major and repeated problems with mechanics, grammar, spelling, and diction and may fail to fulfill the assignment or may be unacceptably brief.

NOTE: Notice how high the standards for “A”, “B”, and even “C” papers are. This might be significantly different from your experience in other classes or in high school.

Participation:

Participation does count for 5% of your final grade. The rubric also gives a clear idea of the expectations for the student behavior in the class. A student must meet all of the requirements to earn a particular grade level. For example, a student who “adds to the quality of the discussion...” (A-level) but has three absences classes over the term (C-level) will probably not earn above a C for participation.

A (90-100)

- Prepare before every class/unit – including clearly demonstrating that they’ve completed the work and reading the material necessary BEFORE that class period/unit.
- Ask questions if they do not understand the material.
- Add to the quality of the discussion by consistent out-of-class preparation and thoughtful and positive participation in class discussions and other assignments.
- Do all the homework assignments prior to their deadlines and, moreover, turn in thoughtful, detailed, thorough, and well-written homework assignments.

B (80-89)

- Prepare before every class assignment.
- Normally ask questions when they do not understand the material and goes beyond the minimum expectations for participation in assignments.
- The class benefits from their participation because they have prepared their work and demonstrate a fundamental understanding of the material. However, these students have not yet fully committed themselves to mastering the material.
- Do most of the work. Some of the assignments, however, are a bit sparse and a bit superficial.

C (70-79)

- Prepare before class assignments except on rare occasions.
- Although uncertain about the subject matter, they infrequently ask questions in class
- Rarely volunteer for discussion beyond the minimum requirements and often demonstrate superficial or insufficient engagement with the course material and process through a lack of preparation.
- Their participation, though mostly adequate in quantity, fails to demonstrate active participation and seems to default to a passive observation.
- Do not do some homework assignments and tend to do the bare minimum required to complete each assignment.

D (60-69)

- Often demonstrate a lack of preparation during the course period.
- Although uncertain about the subject matter, they rarely ask questions or engage with the instructor or peers.
- Participation is limited to completing only the minimum of work.
- Students participate in class discussions but sometimes they do so in disrespectful ways.
- Frequently miss assignments. Usually do the bare minimum needed to complete an assignment.
- Appear to place the responsibility for learning almost entirely on the course/instructor.
- Through their neglect of preparation, they fail to contribute significantly to course lectures, discussions or other assignments.

Failing

- Have more than 4 absences.
- Rarely prepare for class.
- Very infrequently ask questions and rarely engage with faculty or peers.
- Behave in inappropriate ways in the class discussion, or other assignments.
- These individuals deter other students from learning through disrupting the educational atmosphere.
- Have not turned in a significant amount of assignments.

Late Work, Attendance, and Make Up Work Policies:

Grading Guidelines for All Assignments:

- No late work will be accepted. “Late,” for this course is defined as after the deadline set for the assignment on the schedule above. The only exceptions will be made to students who contact me beforehand and receive a reply detailing the accommodations or students who meet the unforeseeable, excused absences as per MCC’s attendance policy.
- All graded work must be typed and submitted electronically (in the case of essays), double-spaced, in standard 12-pt font and follow all conventions of an MLA paper. There will be a sample paper written in standard MLA form available in “Samples” on Google Classroom.
- Assignments must ALWAYS meet the minimum length & source requirements and address the prompt/assignment.

ESSAYS (READ ME!)

Rough/First Complete Draft Grading

- “Rough Drafts” in this class are different from what you might be used to.
- For this class, “Rough Draft” means a complete draft that you would expect to generally turn in without major feedback
- Rough drafts must always meet the minimum expectations for the assignment in terms of formatting, topic, length, and source requirements.
- Think of rough drafts as very close to final drafts. They should represent a significant mid-point in the writing process, not the very beginning.
- Rough drafts that fail to meet minimum requirements in terms of topic, length, or source requirements can be immediately reduced by 5% for each requirement missed.
 - Those that fail to meet minimum length requirements by more than 25% will immediately receive an additional 20% reduction. (ie. A 3 page draft for a 4 page assignment will only be able to earn a maximum of 75% of the available points.)
- The goal of “rough”/first drafts is to get you writing earlier and more than you think you should and to build in the need to revise and rewrite significantly.

Smarthinking:

For each of the two essay assignments, students need to submit a complete draft to Smarthinking, an online tutoring program accessed through our Brightspace page, for an “Essay Review” at least once between the rough and the final draft due dates.

(We will be taking time in the unit when your first complete/rough draft is due to go over the submission process and techniques for using the service to get additional help with your writing.)

However, there are a few general things that I want to apprise you of before you go into using the service:

- Make sure that you familiarize yourself with the interface before you have to submit a paper.
- When you fill out the “Submission Form”, be as specific as possible about the description of the assignment and the kind of help you are requesting.
- Since Smarthinking can take 24-48 hrs. to read and respond to your essay draft, you need to make sure that you submit early enough. You will want to give yourself enough time to get the feedback, make changes, and possibly submit it again for additional review. This means that submissions later than a day or two before the final draft is due will not likely assist your writing to much degree.
- The Smarthinking review MUST be submitted with the final draft or risk losing 10% off of the total grade for the draft.

Final Draft Grading

- When submitting final drafts, students must always include the Smarthinking review along with the final draft itself. Missing this will result in a 10% deduction per missing element.
- Final drafts that do not meet MLA formatting or citation guidelines in any way will lose an immediate 10% of the available points and, depending on the severity of the citation errors, could be turned over for consideration for academic dishonesty.
- Final draft submissions that clearly do not meet the assignment in respect of length, topic, or source requirement can immediately be reduced by 10% of the available points.
 - Those that fail to meet the minimum length required by more than 25% will see an additional deduction of 40% off of the possible grade. (ie. A 300 word draft for a 400 word assignment will only be able to earn a maximum of 50% of the available points.)
- In all cases, you do have the right and responsibility to ask for clarification about why and how the assignment does not meet the basic, minimum standards for the assignment.

Student Behavioral Expectations or Conduct Policy:

Online Attendance:

Attendance in an online course obviously differs from a face-to-face course. However, in an online course, student preparation and participation become even more important in order for the course to encourage student development and grow in knowledge and skills.

Students who miss more than one assignment (writing/quizzes/discussion) per unit will be counted “tardy”. Three tardies equal an absence.

Therefore, students who fail to complete two (or more) of the required assignments for the unit by the deadline (or miss a deadline for a rough or final draft) can be counted as “absent” for that unit.

More than 2 absences will result in the final course grade being lowered by 3% per absence (with a maximum of 10% lost off the final grade due to absences).

- If there is a valid reason why you went/will overreach the allowed absences, please contact me ASAP to talk about options. There will be some cost for all absences beyond 2.

Remember, there are only 9 units for this session, and students who earn absences for more than 25% of the units will generally be removed, as per the MCC attendance policy below.

Accommodations/ADA Statement

Any student who is a qualified individual with a disability may request reasonable accommodations to assist with providing equal access to educational opportunities. Students should contact the Accommodations Coordinator as soon as possible to provide documentation and make necessary arrangements. Once that process is completed, appropriate verification will be provided to the student and instructor. Please note that instructors are not required to provide classroom accommodations to students until appropriate verification has been provided by the Accommodations Coordinator. Instructors should not provide accommodations unless approved by the Accommodations Coordinator. For additional information, please visit mclennan.edu/disability.

Students with questions or who require assistance with disabilities involving physical, classroom, or testing accommodations should contact:
