Course Notes and Instructor Recommendations:

Students enrolling in this course are expected to perform with a high degree of self-discipline and dedication. It is important that you dedicate as much time to this course as you would to a face-to-face course. Reliable access to a computer for the duration of the course is vital. Problems with your computer or poor connectivity are no excuse for late assignments. Communication is vital; therefore, you must be able to access and check your MCC email and Brightspace multiple times each week. Be sure to keep up with readings and assignments and avoid procrastination. It is up to you to contact me if you experience any difficulties.

Methods of Teaching and Learning:

A variety of methods will be used in teaching United States History I, including the use of lecture, discussion, written assignments, and various projects. Student assessment will include objective exams, readings of primary and secondary sources, discussions, subjective and objective essays, projects, and portfolios. These measures will assess critical thinking, communication, social responsibility, and personal responsibility. A departmental rubric may be used to assess different aspects of the course objectives.

Course Objectives and/or Competencies:

Critical Thinking: Through lecture and a variety of objective strategies, students will be assessed on critical thinking ability. Objective examinations will specifically be used to assess critical thinking. Other assessment vehicles may include essays, portfolios, primary source objective exams, and presentations.

Communication: Measures such as objective tests, written assignments, discussions, portfolios, and presentations may be used to measure the student's ability to communicate.

Social Responsibility: Because the teaching of history involves evoking examples of successes and failures in social responsibility, and the continual importance of this issue politically and personally today, social responsibility naturally is emphasized. Assessment measures may include readings, primary document exams, discussions, projects, and essays.

Personal Responsibility: Because the teaching of history also involves evoking examples of successes and failures in personal responsibility, and the consequences that personal choices can have, personal responsibility is also naturally emphasized. Assessment measures may include participation, readings, primary document exams, discussions, projects, and essays.

Course Outline or Schedule:

The exact exam dates for the first and second exam will be announced in class via Announcements. The instructor reserves the right to make changes as necessary to the syllabus/schedule and will inform students via Brightspace Announcements and MCC email when these changes are made.

Course Grading Information:

Your success in this class will be based on your ability to keep up with your readings and to complete weekly activities, such as chapter quizzes and discussion board sessions. In addition, I will assess your comprehension of the content with three non-comprehensive exams. These assignments can be found by clicking on “Content,” then “Learning Units.” Most grades will post immediately, and all others will be posted to Brightspace within a week of their due date. Your Brightspace grade is an estimate, depending on pending grades. Final grades can be accessed via WebAdvisor at the end of the semester. Grading will be weighted according to the following scale and students can view their grades from the “Assessments,” “Grades” tab.

There will be three equally weighted non-comprehensive exams, including the final. These exams will be taken online through Brightspace and will have a combination of multiple-choice, matching, and essay (answer in essay format, not listing) questions over the content in the textbook, reading summaries, and additional readings. Study guides with a list of test question topics will be provided before exams and should be used as a guide to help you compile all aspects regarding that topic. Exams can only be taken ONCE, so make sure that you are prepared before accessing the exam. Exams are NOT open book/notes. If you fail to take the exam before the deadline and do not contact me within a week, you will be subject to being dropped from the course.

Each week you will be expected to take an online open-book quiz/quizzes over each chapter/s covered that week. Each quiz/zes will consist of a combination of 10 to 20 multiple choice and true-false questions. To access the quiz, go to “Learning Units” and access the appropriate week number and chapter, or click “Assessments,” “Quizzes” at the top. Students may take quizzes up to six times but make note that you may not see the same questions each time. Brightspace will record the highest grade out of these attempts. The overall average of your quizzes will count for 25% of your final grade; however, quizzes provide a preview/sample of what to expect on examinations. Read the chapter and/or summary prior to taking the quiz. Unit quizzes must be submitted to access or see the exam for that unit.

Students will be expected to participate twice per week (once to the original prompt and to a peer on a separate day) in online discussion forums over the textbook, supplementary reading assignments or external media and links by responding to the instructor's prompts or questions on specific topics. To access the discussions, go to “Learning Units” and access the appropriate week number and chapter, or click “Discussions” at the top. Follow the guidelines within each week's discussion instructions to receive total credit for participation; however, make sure that you are not just replying with short-answer posts, such as stating simply that you agree or disagree. Responses require some thought and use of proper online etiquette by providing comments that can easily be read (not in text lingo) and that recognize respect for your instructor and peers. Inappropriate responses will result in the loss of points and repeated violations may result in you being dropped from the course. I will not respond to all posts, but I will monitor all posts. Do not wait until Sunday night to complete this assignment as you will be limiting the posts that your peers have to respond to and will make it impossible for you to gain maximum points.

Assignment Percentage:

Chapter Quizzes = 25%

Discussion Board Postings = 25%

Exams = 50%

The average of your grades will be based on the following scale:

A = 90-100

B = 80-89

C = 70-79

D = 60-69

F = Below 60

Late Work, Attendance, and Make Up Work Policies:

Exams cannot be made up unless there is a clear, documented emergency that caused you to be unable to take the exam. If such an emergency occurs, you must contact me as soon as possible via email. Makeup exams will be given at the discretion of the instructor. Weekly attendance is determined based upon your completion of quizzes and discussion boards so make sure that you meet the Sunday midnight deadline to be counted in attendance for the week.

Student Behavioral Expectations or Conduct Policy:

Effective communication is very important in an online course. Students should be respectful of others and open to differences in opinion as we will be covering numerous controversial issues.
